Project

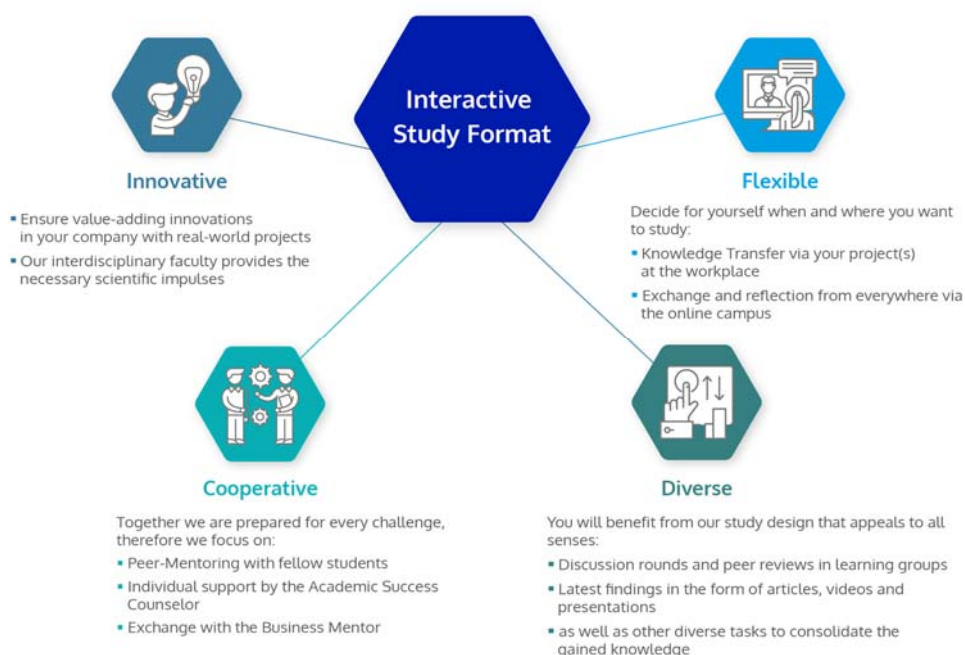

Within the framework of the program, you will develop solutions for key business challenges and thus ensure immediate benefits. At the same time, you will go through a process of personnel development during the project implementation. By working out and reflecting on projects, you will learn to set goals and to realize them successfully even in new situations.

Through application in the project, we ensure that you not only acquire knowledge and qualifications (i.e. mastering things in theory), but that your competencies are built up in practice.

In addition, a structured project curriculum will give you the opportunity to work continuously and systematically on the scientific progress of the project and to reflect on it with fellow students, lecturers and your company. This way, you will achieve the greatest possible practical and theoretical expertise in an individually selected project area.

Format and Content

The focus of the study format is therefore on your own project implementation. You will be embedded in a close network of diverse sparring partners who will accompany you intensively on your way, e.g. in weekly discussion groups. Variety is provided by the task and media diversity on the two campuses. Interactive study is thus guaranteed:

Furthermore, the program combines essential elements of the M.Sc. in International Management with the US-American MBA. Half of the course content is acquired on the German and half on the US-American campus together with German and international talents:

SIBE Campus	Post Campus
Project curriculum	Practical Corporate Management (incl. Project Management)
Development of Competencies	Analytics and Strategy
(Digital) Leadership (incl. Foresight)	Finance
International Business Development	Elective: Change or Innovation Management

In addition to continuous project development, you also have the opportunity to focus continuously on your personal development: With the help of proven instruments of competency assessments, you define your personal goals and get the opportunity to work systematically on them.

Examination results

Since at work, skills and performance are more important than passing knowledge tests, we have designed the entire program to focus in your skills development. For this reason, you will not write any exams to test your knowledge during the German-US-Dual-Degree M.Sc./MBA, but you will work on problems and tasks in the form of presentations and project-related homework (so-called transfer or project study papers). Finally, your Master's thesis will assess your ability to transfer theory into practice and thus certify your innovative contribution to your company.
